Management Self-Assessment & Compliance

Censeo screenshots

Censeo is a totally flexible on-line resource developed in conjunction with a major UK automotive company. It can be fully customised to your organisation enabling you to create the regular self-assessments using your own criteria and links to further data and defined standards.

Censeo is so flexible it can grow with your organisation and can cope with any corporate structure allowing for divisions, regions, commercial units, locations and departments.

A Censeo "self-assessment" due date occurs at predefined periods, usually 1 or 3 months. Department managers complete or update the self-assessment in response to an e-mail notification of the completion date.

Using a traffic light system each question is answered to indicate full, partial or non-compliance on specific areas. If a red "non-compliant" or amber "shortly to comply" answer is given, the manager/assessor must enter additional data to indicate the reason and a date of estimated full compliance. Fully compliant is indicated by the green traffic light. When all the required questions are answered the assessment is signed-off on-line. Each "assessment" can be completed in multi-sessions to allow the local manager time flexibility.

Censeo has a "Reports" section that shows all data in real-time or archive form with graphs, trend analysis, and comparisons with previous assessments.

Censeo has a feature rich "Auditors" section including system messages and dispute resolution.

Censeo operates from a secure "Verisign" certified server accessible via our Sentinel secure gateway.

Censeo has a flexible cost based on the number of departments registered. This enables you to pay for no more than you need at any moment in time on a monthly billing basis.
